

To whom it may concern,

Kalino Latu

Kalino did an internship at PMN News for two weeks as part of his master's course at AUT.

It was a pleasure to work with Kalino and to see his enthusiasm for expanding his skills into radio writing and audio editing.

Kalino's in-depth knowledge of Tongan politics and culture added real value to our content, and his attention to detail and scrupulous sourcing of material stood out.

He offered stories for the website which were well-researched and written and provided PMN News with stories which we usually don't have the capacity to investigate.

Kalino's contributions gave our content added depth and breadth.
